Cabinet NG Announces Bundled Turnkey Document Management System

by Joel P. Bruckenstein

Components from Kodak, KOM and Dell Round Out Offering

Putting together a comprehensive document management solution for a small or mid-sized RIA can be a challenge.

Virtual Office News offers extensive advice on selecting scanners and software, as well as advice on document authentication and regulations, but some advisory firms do not have the time or inclination to construct their own solution from among the components that VON recommends. These firms would rather purchase a turnkey end-to-end solution from a single provider.

Cabinet NG now offers such a solution.

The new Cabinet NG bundle is initially being sold in three configurations, and more may be added. Each of the bundles consists of four components: the Cabinet NG software, one or more Kodak scanners, KOMpliance software, and a Dell server, configured with the previously mentioned software.

Cabinet NG's CNG-SAFE document management system is a robust system that we've reviewed favorably in the past. It includes security and tracking features, as well as excellent workflow capabilities. We've recently reviewed a number of Kodak scanners, too, and they've received good marks as well. KOMpliance is a secure archival solution that insures data integrity and availability. It secures data from unauthorized access and prevents tampering. It also allows supervisors to set and enforce document retention policies. The Dell servers, available in various sizes, all feature RAID drives and redundant power supplies.

The base package, suitable for an office of up to five employees, includes a 160GB Dell server, two concurrent licenses for CNG-SAFE, the KOMpliance software, and a Kodak ScanMate i1120 scanner. The total solution sells for approximately $15,000.
